

- Home
- Platform
- Campaign
- Press Release
- Contribute
- Ex-Mayors
- Biography
- Coverage
- Press
- Toronto
- Twitter
- People
- Pictures
- Video
- Audio
- Cancer
- Fluoride
- Vaccines
- Health
- Wealth
- Relationships
- Articles
- Thoughts
- Music
- Blog
- Links
- FAQ

Blog

Vijay Sarma - 2010 Toronto Mayor Candidate

1512-C Dundas Street West, Toronto, Ontario, M6K 1T5

Vijay.Sarma@gmail.com | 647-857-5755 | <http://WhatYouWantToBelieveIn.com>

These were blog entry updates in the run-up to launching the campaign website. They started dealing with the G20 Summit in June, then Caribana July, then the Global IMF/World Bank plans for all countries in August. For ongoing campaign updates, please see my Twitter account.

<http://twitter.com/MayorVij>

UPDATE 6 -- Thursday, August 19, 2010, 3:11 pm EST -- Global World Bank and IMF Austerity Plans Take Down The Greek's Democracy -- Who's Next?

I just read the beginning of this article at Infowars.com, they collect the best of the days mainstream news, plus more. Then I finished it at the German newspaper Der Spiegel's website from a link, international edition. The main photo used caught my eye with a "70% off" sale sign, just like the ones seen at The Eaton Centre over the last few months. The article makes it seem like nobody knew this was coming. Except the IMF has done this to poor countries for over 50 years. Latin America, Africa and Asia will tell you as much.

Thanks again to Infowars.com, a few years ago I learned of the whistle-blowing work of former World Bank Chief Economist Joseph Stiglitz. In 2001, he released documents that showed how the World Bank and IMF (International Monetary Fund) deliberately increase the foreign debts of countries at high interest, then force them to undertake severe financial austerity (read: everyone use less) measures that collapse the country. Then big corporations come in and buy-up everything cheap. That's why they own the third world today.

Canada is a western democracy, just like Greece, so unless we know what the same institutions have done, the same thing will be done to us in this "global" economic system. Even if we know, we still have to make a big stink to stop it. But, that's a lot easier to do once we know. For the record, here's the start of an old mainstream article I found by Googling key terms, or the same way everyone else can. The bad guys never try to change their tricks, they just try to make us forget them. So, we should remember and share them soon.

Our corporate media is also giving us "smart" or "polite" ways to talk about the "double-dip recession", a ludicrous term since all the trustworthy experts say the recession was getting worse all along. After trillions in government-paid and taxpayer's-grandchildren owing "bailouts" to big banks, some of it used to prop up the stock market, almost none of it used to help people, we have to ask why the same people who say they're screwing up are making more money and stealing more of our stuff. To do this, we need to destroy their B.S.

So, below the April 29, 2001 article is the new one from August 18, 2010 that shows us how the media is selling us the exact same World Bank and IMF "austerity" measures as a necessary evil with horrible consequences that we may have to go through anyway. Much of our "news" media works like this, or they give us problems without giving us ways to react to them, or sharing examples of people who do in a serious way. We'll be taught how to act helpless unless we figure out how to fight back. I hope the excerpts below help us do so.

More shortly, I need to find a way to beat the fact that we like to be "fans" and help us do things to protect our families and friends from this. Then we can be fans of ourselves and maybe even get fans too. People have resisted "tyranny" for thousands of years, but we've been taught that it doesn't exist, despite the fact that we know our corporate-controlled governments are evil. Maybe this is the best "system" we could ask for right now. However, when it's getting worse, it's worth asking for more. Some information and ideas on how to are below.

Warm regards,

Vijay

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

647-857-5755

.

Old World Bank and IMF Whistle-Blower Mainstream News Article from 2001:

.

IMF's four steps to damnation

How crises, failures, and suffering finally drove a Presidential adviser to the wrong side of the barricades

Gregory Palast | The London Observer | April 29, 2001

It was like a scene out of Le Carré: the brilliant agent comes in from the cold and, in hours of debriefing, empties his memory of horrors committed in the name of an ideology gone rotten. But this was a far bigger catch than some used-up Cold War spy. The former apparatchik was Joseph Stiglitz, ex-chief economist of the World Bank. The new world economic order was his theory come to life. He was in Washington for the big confab of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund. But instead of chairing meetings of ministers and central bankers, he was outside the police cordons. The World Bank fired Stiglitz two years ago. He was not allowed a quiet retirement: he was excommunicated purely for expressing mild dissent from globalisation World Bank-style.

Here in Washington we conducted exclusive interviews with Stiglitz, for The Observer and Newsnight, about the inside workings of the IMF, the World Bank, and the bank's 51% owner, the US Treasury. And here, from sources unnamable (not Stiglitz), we obtained a cache of documents marked, 'confidential' and 'restricted'. Stiglitz helped translate one, a 'country assistance strategy'. There's an assistance strategy for every poorer nation, designed, says the World Bank, after careful in-country investigation. But according to insider Stiglitz, the Bank's 'investigation' involves little more than close inspection of five-star hotels. It concludes with a meeting with a begging finance minister, who is handed a 'restructuring agreement' pre-drafted for 'voluntary' signature.

Each nation's economy is analysed, says Stiglitz, then the Bank hands every minister the same four-step programme. ...

... At this point, according to Stiglitz, the IMF drags the gasping nation to Step Three: market-based pricing - a fancy term for raising prices on food, water and cooking gas. This leads, predictably, to Step-Three-and-a-Half: what Stiglitz calls 'the IMF riot'. The IMF riot is painfully predictable. When a nation is, 'down and out, [the IMF] squeezes the last drop of blood out of them. They turn up the heat until, finally, the whole cauldron blows up,' - as when the IMF eliminated food and fuel subsidies for the poor in Indonesia in 1998. Indonesia exploded into riots.

There are other examples - the Bolivian riots over water prices last year and, this February, the riots in Ecuador over the rise in cooking gas prices imposed by the World Bank. You'd almost believe the riot was expected. And it is. What Stiglitz did not know is that Newsnight obtained several documents from inside the World Bank. In one, last year's Interim Country Assistance Strategy for Ecuador, the Bank several times suggests - with cold accuracy - that the plans could be expected to spark 'social unrest'.

That's not surprising. The secret report notes that the plan to make the US dollar Ecuador's currency has pushed 51% of the population below the poverty line.

The IMF riots (and by riots I mean peaceful demonstrations dispersed by bullets, tanks and tear gas) cause new flights of capital and government bankruptcies. This economic arson has its bright side - for foreigners, who can then pick off remaining assets at fire sale prices. A pattern emerges. There are lots of losers but the clear winners seem to be the western banks and US Treasury. ...

... Stiglitz has two concerns about the IMF/World Bank plans. First, he says, because the plans are devised in secrecy and driven by an absolutist ideology, never open for discourse or dissent, they 'undermine democracy'. Second, they don't work. Under the guiding hand of IMF structural 'assistance' Africa's income dropped by 23%.

Did any nation avoid this fate? Yes, said Stiglitz, Botswana. Their trick? 'They told the IMF to go packing.' ...

Note: To see the four steps to poverty we're going through unless we stop them, see the rest of this article at this link:

<http://www.guardian.co.uk/business/2001/apr/29/business.mbas>

.

New World Bank and IMF Mainstream News Article Selling Us To Accept This Mess in 2010:

.

Entering a Death Spiral?

Tensions Rise in Greece as Austerity Measures Backfire

Corinna Jessen | Der Spiegel | August 18, 2010

The austerity measures that were supposed to fix Greece's problems are dragging down the country's economy. Stores are closing, tax revenues are falling and unemployment has hit an unbelievable 70 percent in some places. Frustrated workers are threatening to strike back. The feast of the Assumption of Mary on Aug. 15 is the high point of summer in the Greek Orthodox world. Here in one of the country's many churches, believers pray to the Virgin for mercy, with many of them falling to their knees.

The newspaper Ta Nea has recommended that the Greek government adopt the very same approach -- the country's leaders have to hope that Mary comes up with a miracle to save Greece from a serious crisis, the paper writes. Without divine intervention, the newspaper suggested, it will be a difficult autumn for the Mediterranean state.

This dire prognosis comes even despite Athens' massive efforts to sort out the country's finances. The government's draconian austerity measures have managed to reduce the country's budget deficit by an almost unbelievable 39.7 percent, after previous governments had squandered tax money and falsified statistics for years. The measures have reduced government spending by a total of 10 percent, 4.5 percent more than the EU and International Monetary Fund (IMF) had required.

The problem is that the austerity measures have in the meantime affected every aspect of the country's economy. Purchasing power is dropping, consumption is taking a nosedive and the number of bankruptcies and unemployed are on the rise. The country's gross domestic product shrank by 1.5 percent in the second quarter of this year. Tax revenue, desperately needed in order to consolidate the national finances, has dropped off. A mixture of fear, hopelessness and anger is brewing in Greek society. ...

Unemployment Rates of up to 70 Percent

... There's hardly a worker in the shipbuilding district of Perama who could still manage that. Unemployment in the city hovers between 60 and 70 percent, according to a study conducted by the University of Piraeus. ...

Sales Figures Dropping Everywhere

Prime Minister George Papandreou's austerity package has seriously shaken the Greek economy. The package included reducing civil servants' salaries by up to 20 percent and slashing retirement benefits, while raising numerous taxes. The result is that Greeks have less and less money to spend and sales figures everywhere are dropping, spelling catastrophe for a country where 70 percent of economic output is based on private consumption. ...

No Way Out

The entire country is in the grip of a depression. Everything seems to be going downhill. The spiral is continuing unabated, and there is no clear way out. The worse part, however, is the fact that hardly anyone still hopes that things will improve one day. ...

'Things Are Starting to Simmer'

Menelaos Givalos, a professor of political science at Athens University, has appeared on television, warning viewers that the worst times are still to come. He predicts a large wave of layoffs starting in September, with "extreme social consequences." ...

Note: To see the way they're selling us the inevitability of poverty and riots to help stop it, see the rest of this article at:

<http://www.spiegel.de/international/europe/0,1518,712511,00.html>

Find the excerpt and more great rare mainstream news stories at:

<http://www.infowars.com/tensions-rise-in-greece-as-austerity-measures-backfire/>

.

Below are great videos and articles to see and share that explain how our current "money" system works. The bottom line: the worlds central banks print "fiat" money out of thin-air and loan it to governments who circulate it into their economies and tax their people to pay the debt back at-interest. Over the last 100 years, this has slowly put our countries under control of the central banking mafia, or a handful of banking families. The "recession" is not "natural". It's the way they steal from us when they tell us we're broke. Don't let them try.

We have just over 30 million people living in the second largest country in the world full of resources, so there's no way in hell we're broke. That's like living in a 200 room mansion with someone and them telling you they have nothing to offer you. If they convince us we're broke, then we'll be broke. If we convince them by knowing and showing that we want our publicly owned Bank of Canada to print us some money debt and interest-free to circulate into our economy, which can be borrowed by any level of government, then we can get more money.

.

Money as Debt

A short animated Canadian film that explains how money is created out of the debts we create when we borrow money.

<http://www.moneyasdebt.net/>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=vVkFb26u9g8>

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-2550156453790090544>

.

The Money Masters

A long documentary that explains the history of money dating back hundreds of years to help us understand how it's used today.

<http://www.themoneymasters.com/>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IXb-LrVkuwM>

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-515319560256183936>

.

America: Freedom to Fascism

A great documentary by Hollywood producer behind "Trading Places" and "The Rose" about banking, the illegal income tax and more.

<http://freedomtofascism.com/>

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=--Ciay4qivA>

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-1656880303867390173>

.

The Conspiracy Culture Book, DVD and More Store at Queen and Roncesvilles

A welcoming place to buy some info on history, health, wealth, relationships and more to get hip to this quick. Even the mass media likes them.

<http://www.conspiracyculture.com/>

<http://www.eyeweekly.com/torontofreedomfestival/article/89149>

<http://www.citytv.com/toronto/citynews/news/local/article/8619--conspiracy-culture-will-obama-clear-the-way-for-arnold>

.

.

.

The City of Toronto vs. G20 Martial Law:

Two Months of Posteuring, Postering, Flying, Radio and Rabble-Rousing to Reach One Million People in Toronto So They Can Reach The Rest

.

Summary

I went postering and flying to protest the G20 protest, which I thought was a big staged fight that we were supposed to fall for. I suggested we calmly and consistently share info about health risks and more instead. After seeing the "martial law" conditions imposed by the Feds and the "world government" the G20 represented, on July 1st, 2010, or Canada Day, I added the element of asking Canadian men to make sure this never happens again on behalf of women, children and the elderly, or "fight for their Toronto tribe" like "men" have always done. Things are going well. It appears that about 80% of people downtown are concerned about our real issues. The next step is making sure we can do something besides just learn about them. That's what prevented me from launching my campaign for Mayor of Toronto. I needed to reach out to enough people to see if enough who wanted to "act" on these issues. Hopefully we do. There are lots of fans of tough guys who watch hockey and UFC. Fighting corruption that threatens everyone here should be on their to-do list too.

More explanations are below. Fortunately, things appear to be going well with this.

.

To download the posters and flyers here, click on "HTTP Files" in the top-left corner.

<http://www.archive.org/details/TwoMonthsOfPosteuringAndPosterngAndFlyingAndRabble-rousingToReach>

.

For a fuller list of more posters and flyers dating back a few years, check these links:

<http://www.mediafire.com/?zqznyiic2ja>

<http://www.megaupload.com/?d=9VE3Y5NK>

.

The posters and flyers are mostly in MS PowerPoint format. They are public domain and open source. They can be downloaded and adapted for use by everybody in the world. They can be used for printing and sharing with family, friends, neighbours, strangers and others as people see fit. They are meant to be shared here as universal templates so the text and pictures can be changed to provide others access to different information in different places at different times. This includes updating the websites to promote different or local sources or groups. Since we're in a global recession, they are also very cost-effective. They come in full 8.5" x 11" versions to be printed in black and white, or 2, 3, 4, 6, 8 and 10 to a page versions. Here in Toronto, they can be printed for 3-cents per one-side of black and white page, then cut-up at Kinko's for $1 per cut. So, with the 6 per page versions, you can have around 3000 made for $20 to share anonymously or publicly. While many people know a lot, calm, peaceful and public acts of "dissent" appear to be appreciated.

Putting up posters and sharing flyers has been done for over a thousand years.

While it's not in style today, it works better than just protesting and going home.

Consistently responding to bad information with better information can save lives.

The establishment is also attacking males to destroy their balls and survival skills.

Women and can scrap too, but the bad guys know if men can't fight, then we'll lose.

See a few articles on how they're attacking "men" and decide if you want to fight back.

If you don't, ask why, then wonder if you'll still be able to fight later if you don't fight now.

This should be a good reason to get in shape to take on the corruption doing this to you.

"Diet, injections, and injunctions will combine, from a very early age, to produce the sort of character and the sort of beliefs that the authorities consider desirable, and any serious criticism of the powers that be will become psychologically impossible."

- Bertrand Russell, "The Impact of Science on Society", 1953

"Imagine yourself if you can, becoming conscious that you are gradually losing your manhood; that your mind is rapidly deteriorating so that you are no longer capable of thinking clearly; unable to plan your future actions. Your resistance is becoming so weakened that you are no longer master of yourself. In short, you are rapidly developing into a moron, a robot, a zombie, readily subject to the dictates of others..."

- Dr. R. Swinburne Clymer, "Food and Liquids Used as a Medium in Deliberately and Carefully Planned Methods Developed by the Vicious Element of Humanity, for the Mental Deterioration and Moral Debasement of the Mass, as a Means Toward Their Enslavement.", 1958

Humanity at Risk: Are the Males Going First?

<http://infowars.wordpress.com/2008/11/17/humanity-at-risk-are-the-males-going-first/>

The Age of Treason: 1958 Book Exposes Chemical Attack on Humanity

http://www.oldthinkernews.com/Articles/oldthinker%20news/age\_of\_treason.htm

Castration drug given to kids as autism therapy

<http://www.sun-sentinel.com/health/fl-autism-treatment-20100803,0,601521,full.story>

BPA contaminants found in most Canadians

<http://www.cbc.ca/health/story/2010/08/16/bpa-bisphenol-levels-urine-contamination.html>

'Gender bending' chemical in food tins may cut male fertility

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-1300402/Gender-bending-chemical-food-tins-cut-male-fertility.html>

Obesity linked to poor sperm quality

http://www.naturalnews.com/029519\_obesity\_sperm\_quality.html

CBC Documentary: The Disappearing Male

Facts about Male Infertility

- * Sperm counts have been cut in half in the last fifty years - and 85% of that is abnormal.
- * In the last few decades there has been a 200% increase in male genital birth defects.
- * Male birth rates have declined. Since 1970 there have been nearly 3 million fewer baby boys.

<http://www.cbc.ca/documentaries/doczone/2008/disappearingmale/>

Out for the count: Why levels of sperm in men are falling

<http://www.independent.co.uk/news/science/out-for-the-count-why-levels-of-sperm-in-men-are-falling-1954149.html>

Rockefeller Foundation Developed Vaccines For "Mass-Scale" Fertility Reduction

<http://www.infowars.com/rockefeller-foundation-developed-vaccines-for-%E2%80%9Cmass-scale%E2%80%9D-fertility-reduction/>

New York Times Pushing for Lithium and Other Drugs in Water Supply – Alex Jones Tv 1/3

<http://freshhealthybody.com/new-york-times-pushing-for-lithium-and-other-drugs-in-water-supply-alex-jones-tv-13/>

.

MUST-SEE VIDEO: Norman Dodd from the 1954 Reece Commission on Tax-Exempt Foundations Explains Their Control Over Most Activism

52 minutes

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YUYCBfmlcHM>

.

History

We had a very successful 2009 starting in July by sharing info about the fake H1N1 pandemic and more lies. We held street-action outreaches with 10 - 30 people. We handed out thousands of flyers, dvd's, legal vaccine exemption forms and more rare info. In 2010, the same well-informed members of TorontoTruthSeekers.com that grew from 200 to 400 members tried and failed to respond as a group before the G20 Summit June 26 - 27 in Toronto. Discussions began 6 months earlier without success. I pushed really hard for us to do things we could do that would be respected and appreciated by others. Just like we did last year. But, since most people just didn't want to do anything, it caused some hard feelings. To this day, I still feel estranged and don't want to ask the same people to do stuff for fear of retribution. But, I still recommend joining them. I just hope someone else can help this group of well-informed and educated adults with access to technology and an open-minded city reach their own potential. It happened before. So, it can happen again.

The G20 was still coming, so I went solo to develop a real and rational "Toronto" response to the G20 Summit before the protest itself. That's the only thing that made sense to me if somebody said they knew and cared about the issues and felt others should know about them too. Just enjoying the chance to go to the "protest" or "event" didn't make sense if the issues were important and we had options. Most people are also interested in current topics provided by our media. Since the media was doing a good job of keeping the G20 Summit in the news, any info about it was worth a look for most. So, anybody could piggy-back the news coverage and reach out to new people with parallel info. In early April, the Globe & Mail had an article where they said 10,000 cops, troops, mercs and spooks were descending on Toronto, plus many others with "diplomatic immunity" who might use this city like their whorehouse. That made me mad. So, on April 7th, I produced 6 per 8.5" x 11" page poster-flyers, hit the streets and haven't stopped since. It's still going well.

The vibe on the streets is good.

Incidentally: "protests" are a very bad idea. When the government you're against invites you to a fight with the cops: DON'T GO. The G20 Summit and $1 billion in "security" was sold as about the "violence" from the start. The whole fiasco happened in slow-motion to me. So: I warned people that it was a mistake to go on my CKLN Radio shows and elsewhere. The "protest" or "rock concert" style model of "dissent" is usually a bunch of followers hearing a few leaders, chanting old slogans, going home and doing nothing else about the issues they say they care about. This approach is likely a creation of intelligence agencies or other groups who often manipulate our cultures, especially "activism", like the FBI's COINTELPRO unit did in the 1960's. The "protest" model is a good way to make people feel good for doing "something" or "the right thing" sold by the mass media and others without actually doing anything to pressure the established power-structure. They don't bug politicians or corporations. Most don't try to learn about the big role of bankers in this either.

Today: we all know we have serious issues in this country. So: people can't say they're "serious" and avoid looking into things on behalf of the people they say they are trying to help. That means they're not serious. Unfortunately: the majority of mainstream activism is like this. That's why things keep getting worse. It's not all their fault. They are likely being lead astray by intelligence operatives or others in charge who are trained to do this. Why? 100 years ago, after getting a bad-rap for violent union-busting and other stuff, super-rich people created "foundations" (Rockefeller, Ford, Carnegie, etc.) to appear "charitable" instead. They still give out "grants" to science, education and activism to do certain work and avoid learning about or discussing who really runs the world and how; plus achieve "social engineering" goals. They mostly ask governments to get bigger and "do more" no matter how badly they did it before. The protest model to control dissent sounds like a think tank idea. See: the super-rich have always been worried about angry mobs of informed people.

So: this is how they control them.

Fortunately, it's been proven for centuries that calmly and consistently sharing important and timely info with people who don't already know it, or family, friends and neighbours, works better than just yelling at cops who don't care - about people who aren't there - getting beaten up and going home. Once again: "protests" are a terrible idea. In 1776, when "The British were coming!" during the American Revolution, Paul Revere didn't just read about it on the internet (or wherever), or yell about it with friends who knew, he told everyone else so they could respond too. If anyone suggested the American Revolutionaries just go to a staged-fight with the cops, or just yell and go home, they would have been laughed at. Today, with big banks, corporations, international institutions and others threatening the lives of all Canadians, it's time for the people who know what's going on to warn the rest just like they were warned. The only reason we have a chance to win is that people have been trying to warn others for decades. It's time to everyone else to get in the game.

There is a good reason the corporate media promotes "protests" and doesn't talk much about people who calmly and consistently share information: it's because it works and the establishment doesn't want us to do it. They don't want us to inform each other about what's really happening on a regular basis so we can all make smarter cultural, health, dating, voting, buying and other choices to put pressure on the system. Instead, the establishment wants to turn "activists" into angry, threatening, clueless and cartoonish caricatures they can demonize on TV to the rest of the public. This helps make "activist" a bad word and turns everyone off from the only option to "dissent" against the "system" that they think they have. Since we all saw this AGAIN at the G20 Summit in Toronto in June 2010, we know that sharing information to help each other reject the lies and threats to our health, wealth and relationships is a better idea. Copy and pass on dvd's, share websites and articles, comment online, but most importantly: start to work in groups to ask politicians for stuff.

We just need to ask for what we want.

More shortly, but there's enough here for everyone to work with, all the best.

Vij

Vijay Sarma - aka - Black Krishna / BK

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

647-857-5755

<http://www.archive.org/details/TwoMonthsOfPosteuringAndPosterngAndFlyeringAndRabble-rousingToReach>

UPDATE 5 -- 7:41 am EST, August 12, 2010 -- Working On Ways To Change The System That We Can Share

With 80% of downtown Toronto concerned about our future, it's a good time to trade notes and move on to the next step: figuring out how to tell our governments to stop lying and saying we're broke. With just 30 million people in the second largest country in the world full of resources and technology, there's no way we're broke. Not after being taxed 60% of our income (add 'em up) for years. There is clearly a problem with the people managing our money, plus-plus. We want to be in a good mood, but it's getting harder to do so without faking it as long as we think things are getting worse fast and can't handle it. We need to find ways to stop our politicians and other civil servants from working hard for the international banks and corporations who own most of our debts and resources. We need to start getting them to work hard for us.

First, we need to see why our educated culture full of nice people with a lot to lose is so apathetic at this crucial time. The main reason is the establishment wants a passive population by any means necessary. They control the big institutions that set and promote the "trends" in every industry and culture. For example, our entertainment industry uses our "retro" culture to turn adults into children so we reminisce about the past instead of try to control their future. Children also constantly seek "approval" instead of being able to give it, so our kids get messed up by our immaturity. They use 12-foot tall pictures of half-naked women to make us feel small and insecure, like the Pharaohs in Egypt, or modern dictators with their pictures, etc. Advertising affects us; and the psychology behind it is meant to do more than just increase sales.

Many people try to do good jobs, but even to be "nice" to others told to want them, most go along with trends in their industry, leading to the big ideas and changes we accept. If we look for it, we can see our socialization and its effects. We're even given "smart" ways to talk about to make it normal and help us accept it. But: that's not smart. Fortunately, we have many old world cultural ideas here to help us remember what we liked (relationships) to avoid where we're heading (isolation) and a tolerant and open minded city. This is not a binary or black or white issue, but just remembering what we like to keep it; rejecting new self-destructive ideas; and adding new stuff that makes sense. We just have to question the ideas being promoted in our sub-cultures more often to see if they really produce more happiness and creativity.

We're also given many ideas in fiction, when our intellectual guard is down, that are planted in our subconscious minds so we'll accept them later. For example, the cancer-causing and privacy violating naked body scanners were seen in the Tom Cruise movie "Minority Report". This technique is known as "predictive programming". Today, we see many stories about unhappy people, weirdos and bleak futures to make us feel depressed and hopeless. Pop-culture is geared towards the youth raised to be in charge, but they're messed-up because adults aren't speaking up, so they need to learn a few things first, including who gives us our culture. If you haven't looked into this stuff yet, don't worry, millions of people worldwide have, so you can too. It can also help everyone come up with ways to save their countries from "globalization".

Good links to explain this are below, but in a nutshell: the colonial powers who ran the world never gave up their stuff and nobody else took it. They created the modern "global" economic system of central banks printing "fiat" money out of thin air and loaning it to countries who tax their people to pay it back, increasing the bankers control. They use "democracy" to stop the "revolutions" they fear. They fool people into choosing from either "left" or "right" wing parties they control. They control most politics science, academia, media, indie media and activism through their tax-exempt foundations (Ford, Rockefeller, etc.) that hand out "grants" so institutions do specific work that doesn't identify or threaten their rule. People are aware there's a "system" running things, but the problem is the establishment has decided to destroy it. As we can see.

While this may seem like a lot, the easiest way to deal with it is to simply hang out with family or friends, watch a 30 minute documentary like "The Fluoride Deception", agree on it being valuable, then work together to ask your elected representatives to watch it and discuss it with you in person for an hour so you can report the results back to your riding. If they're trying to do a good job: you can help them by giving them the public support they need. If they're not: we'll be able to tell. This is the simplest thing to do: watch movies about important issues in groups, then ask the people who represent you with great government jobs and guaranteed salaries to do the same, then share the results. While we've been socialized to think we can't do anything, before things get worse with health risks, new wars and the recession, it's best to realize we can.

.

Below are a few helpful and timely links to check out, more shortly, all the best.

Regards,

Vij

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

.

These two CKLN Radio interviews that I did with fellow Canadian Alan Watt explain almost everything to catch us up:

MP3 Download

http://www.cuttingthroughthetmatrix.net/radio/Rude\_Awakening\_Black\_Krishna\_CKLN\_FM.html

Transcript

http://www.cuttingthroughthetmatrix.com/transcripts/Alan\_Watt\_on\_RudeAwakening\_with\_BlackKrishna\_CKLN\_FM\_RyersonUniversity\_Toronto\_Oct022007.html

The documentary "Endgame" explains why so many things are bad for us, who's behind it, why we don't care and why we should:

Online Full HQ Version

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=x-CrNiiZho>

Annotated Bibliography

<http://www.endgamethemovie.com/biblio01.html>

The documentary "The Fluoride Deception" is just 30 minutes and worth sharing. Montreal, Vancouver and Europe rejected it, we should find out why:

Online Full Version

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=7319752042352089988#>

Book Description and More Info

<http://www.fluoridealert.org/fluoride-deception.htm>

.

These are great websites to check on a regular basis.

If the info is stupid, just laugh at it, there's no harm in seeing it.

If it's smart, then appreciate it and please pass it on so others can too.

.

Daily News - <http://www.infowars.com>

Daily News - <http://statismwatch.ca>

Daily News - <http://pressfortruth.ca>

Daily News - <http://www.canadafreepress.com>

Daily News - <http://www.theagoranational.ca>

Daily News - <http://www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com>

Comment - <http://www.henrymakow.com>

Health - <http://www.naturalnews.com>

Health - <http://canadiansforhealthfreedom.wordpress.com>

Health - <http://www.canadiancoalitionforhealthfreedom.ca>

Money - <http://www.tarpley.net>

Money - <http://www.trendsresearch.com>

Money - <http://theinternationalforecaster.com>

Celebrity - <http://vigilantcitizen.com>

Relationships - <http://www.thepinkcross.org>

.

.

.

UPDATE 4 -- 3:28 pm EST, July 30, 2010 -- Figuring Out How To Tell The Truth In Toronto In The 21st Century

.

Sorry for the delays, but John Tory is just thinking of running now, so I'm not too late. I'm trying to figure out what will work in our culture to get people to defend it, that's the only way I can run for mayor on "real" issues that will make a difference. While investigating options as an independent candidate, I got too much advice based on "fear" instead of "love", or a fear of what people might say if I tell the truth, as opposed to a love of the truth and the people who could be helped by it if we can find ways to say it that we'll accept. That's what makes this so strange. We just need to figure out what will work for us to get us going to safeguard our futures and that of our families and friends. If we all work on it, then we'll probably find it. But, even if we just agree we should, that might work.

On that note, below is a question I answered on a message board from a young graphic designer looking to break through, plus an article I wrote warning about what might happen at Caribana 2010 based on what happened before on Thursday night (July 29th) and last year. Otherwise we're in great shape with about 80% of people in downtown Toronto aware there's something really wrong that we have to deal with. Fortunately, the "G20 Martial Law" was a huge wake-up call for our city. Unfortunately, the media helped many of us forget about it after just 3 days, especially since we really wanted to. The problem is the government never apologized and never said it wouldn't happen again, so we all have to do something to make sure it doesn't, or get informed, get mad and get busy. No problem.

More shortly, I have to break a lot of things down in the shortest and simplest ways possible, thanks for your patience.

Warm regards,

Vijay

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

.

Paraphrased Question: "You're smart and people listen to you, how do I reach them with my work?"

.

thanks and n02k10 problem dood, but all this takes years to figure out if you don't listen to people, so i recommend that first and foremost. just jump-off convos and try to shut-up and get as much human intell as possible, and actually take it seriously since you want to appeal to it, especially since many people don't take anything seriously, including each other, so you'll stand out and it will come out in your work. these days you almost never get anything useful for the first few minutes of any conversation, but once people are comfortable with you and don't think you'll judge them for "their" opinions as opposed to all the safe crap they know everyone says, you'll get good stuff.

second, the only thing that people care about is their relationships with other people. that's it. believe me, i know. i told them everything else they should care about and most people didn't care about it. however, even tough guys sing love songs and they're usually the best ones made because most people are missing and craving that. in this cold age of technology, where couples sit beside each other and "txt" on their phones, our language is being reduced to the point where we can't talk to each other and we have trouble "thinking" of how to be "happy" for long, if you can create some work that deals with "relationships" in various ways to help people recover and relate, then you're in.

hope that helps! :-)

cheers,

bk

.

[Note: "BK" or "Black Krishna" is a stage name I use for radio shows and more, check Radio4All.net and search "CKLN" to hear my work.]

.

FYI, please feel free to re-post this public domain article for free on any blog or website (etc.) and pass it on before this 2010 Caribana Weekend in Toronto. Based on the very early police actions last night, including a huge group of tough but bored-looking black-clad SWAT cops patrolling the empty nightclub district, there may be efforts to step-up the use of police to crackdown on the public like they were ordered to at the G20 Summit. Since many police are upset at being ordered to ignore all the violent anarchists destroying their cop cars and more, many may be somewhat awake to the "new world order" pulling the strings and ready to help resist them with public support.

However, that also means that false flag attacks on them may be used to get them motivated to carry out their orders to attack everyone else, especially at the Caribana event in Toronto, which has been (wrongly in most cases) associated with "violence" making it easier for shills in the media to justify anything that takes place to the public. Finally, there are many ways to look at the situation we're all in, but assuming that we have no power as individuals or in groups and accepting that the worst as inevitable is probably the worst one. The great news is the bad guys got caught and their plans have been re-confirmed for decades, so we can always work on new ways to derail them.

Just some food for thought, all the best.

Regards,

Vijay

(aka Black Krishna / BK)

.

G20 MARTIAL LAW PART 2? -- Caribana 2009 - 2010 Police Reports and Predictions

.

By Vijay Sarma (aka Black Krishna / BK) | July 30, 2010

Last night, I was fortunate to witness a small series of Metro Toronto Police actions at Dundas Square and in the Club District, both in downtown Toronto. This was the Thursday night (July 29th) before Caribana weekend celebrations, so there wasn't much happening, but enough to give us a clue as to what might. Now, keep in mind the Metro Toronto Police don't normally act like they did at the G20 Summit. No Canadian in their right mind would rush a crowd of people singing "Oh Canada" right on cue as they finished, among other authorized transgressions. Maybe a couple of crazy cops might, but not 100 at once. It was a perfect TV opportunity thanks to commands heard on tiny earpieces that were acted upon. That's enough.

Nobody will risk their job in this economy, so it's up to everyone to get the truth out in the "info war" to stop our police, military, others with government jobs and others in positions of power from being ordered to participate in attacks on us. People can do their jobs and have fun, but if they don't get the word out about who really pulls the strings behind the scenes as re-discovered and re-confirmed for decades, then the world we all live in will get a lot less fun. Frankly, while individuals will do great work, if more "men" don't decide to deal with this on behalf of women, children and the elderly, then it's over. After all, if that "group" of people in our culture won't "step-up" and handle this, then who will? Please keep that in mind for the future.

After usually seeing them every half-hour in downtown Toronto, the police have kept a fairly low-profile since the G20 Summit, likely due to the bad publicity. Most media and activists have also overlooked the obvious Federal ranking-role while hanging the cops out to dry, including the RCMP getting the lion's share or $500 million of the $1 billion in failed "security" which they didn't finish spending (TheRealNews 28/Jun/10). It also looked like a spontaneous bout of "blue flu", when many cops, who can't legally strike, may have called in sick right after the G20 as they almost vanished. It looked like the people of Toronto were being set-up for another fight with their police, so it's good for both to resist the propaganda.

On Thursday night, before Caribana, there was a small holding action at Yonge and Dundas, with a half-dozen cops taking a random corner each and a few others on bikes. But, after hanging around for a bit they just left. What looked crazy was the 25 militarized police clad in all-black walking along John and Richmond streets in a very empty Club District, but their body language was relaxed and they mingled easily through the small crowds as opposed to intimidating them out of the way. A lot of police know me, so I got a few nods from them. It really seemed like they were bored and just "doing their jobs" and ready to go home. Nothing was happening before they got there and there were few people, so it was a low-key exercise.

That brings us to Toronto Caribana Weekend 2010, where traditional associations of "violence" and a large group of "black" people might be used as an excuse to justify more population control exercises similar to the ones seen at past Caribana's, the G20 Protests and elsewhere. The wealthy central banking families who print money from nothing, loan it to governments worldwide to control them who then tax their people to pay it back, want to get their local political shills to use any excuse to declare forms of "martial law" to scare people into submission. After the most traumatic event in Toronto's history, with over 10,000 "soldiers" sent to occupy, terrorize and evacuate the city, the people of Toronto could be in for a Caribana sequel.

With no build-up, the police (etc.) actions at Caribana 2010 won't be as large as the ones at the G20 Summit. But, times have still changed. 10 years ago, the police were ordered to stay 50 feet back every two streets, away from the main Saturday night Yonge Street party, or close enough to react in seconds, but far enough away to avoid disturbing thousands of mostly black people peacefully and quietly partying, as I saw many times, or just hanging out after the nightclubs closed. Last year, things were different. The police were ordered to mingle in with the crowds in ways that were shocking to this observer, plus special units were ordered to run various population control exercises and randomly push groups of people around.

For details, see the story I wrote last year right after Caribana 2009 documenting the police actions, likely part of a larger NATO military drill involving member countries called "NLE '09" doing the same things to their people. Thanks to a growing local awareness due to the efforts in the infowar, the effects of the global recession and the "martial law" insanity surrounding the recent G20 Summit, most people in Toronto are somewhat awake to the "new world order" group of banksters behind "globalization", including many police. Based on how angry many are at being forced to let their cop cars (etc.) burn live on TV, it could take a false flag or "fake" attack to get them to react violently. That could be one of the plans to step all this up.

We should understand that we can't just "ignore" the people threatening us and remain happy. As long as they're in charge and pushing for more control, our happiness will be compromised. If a jury of 12 people takes 2 weeks to look at evidence and decides someone should go to jail, then we believe them. In the "infowar", there is arguably a jury of at least 12 million people with peers, passion, persistence and proof worldwide who've spent at least 2 years looking into the people behind "globalization" using international institutions like the United Nations to centralize and increase their control over the world. Guns won't work, so the only way to protect the culture you're in is to share info about their plans so we can resist them.

The story on Caribana 2009 and good websites and movies to share are below, good luck and have a great weekend.

Regards,

Vijay

(aka Black Krishna / BK)

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

blackkrishna@gmail.com

.

Tuesday, August 04, 2009

The Caribana Police Report: NLE '09 Martial Law Drills in Toronto?

<http://blackkrishna.blogspot.com/2009/08/caribana-police-report-nle-09-martial.html>

.

Daily News - <http://www.infowars.com>

Daily News - <http://statismwatch.ca>

Daily News - <http://pressfortruth.ca>

Daily News - <http://www.canadafreepress.com>

Daily News - <http://www.theagoranational.ca>

Daily News - <http://www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com>

Comment - <http://www.henrymakow.com>

Health - <http://www.naturalnews.com>

Health - <http://canadiansforhealthfreedom.wordpress.com>

Health - <http://www.canadiancoalitionforhealthfreedom.ca>

Money - <http://www.tarpley.net>

Money - <http://www.trendsresearch.com>

Money - <http://theinternationalforecaster.com>

Celebrity - <http://vigilantcitizen.com>

Relationships - <http://www.thepinkcross.org>

.

Two key films that everyone should see and share now:

.

The Obama Deception HQ Full length version

6,788,518 views

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=eAaQNACwaLw>

EndGame HQ full length version

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=x-CrNliZho>

Endgame Bibliography

<http://www.endgamethemovie.com/biblio01.html>

.

.

.

UPDATE 3 -- 3:00 pm EST, July 10th, 2010

10 Days After Canada Day: What's Happening in Canada?

Posters and Flyers - For Use or Adaptation

Public Domain Distribution - 10July10 Release.rar

These are all public domain and open source templates and examples in MS PowerPoint and Word format so they can be adapted easily by anyone in the world. The words, pictures and websites can be changed to reflect different interests, issues and regions. They can be printed in black and white for just 3-cents per 8.5" x 11" page and cut-up at Kinko's for $1 per cut. For a few dollars, you can always keep a variety of flyers handy to share in case different topics come up. With economic woes hitting the world, this "old school" idea of putting up posters and sharing flyers is historically the best and most cost-effective solution to fight for our rights. People can get creative and personal, and quickly, yet calmly and consistently share info. Burning and sharing DVD's is strongly recommended too.

<http://www.mediafire.com/?zqznyiic2ja>

<http://www.megaupload.com/?d=9VE3Y5NK>

Since Canada Day, July 1st, 2010, I've been publicly posting on a regular basis in Toronto. I've been suggesting that we share rare and valuable information that improves Canadian lives while indicting the system. We all learn different things, so we can all learn more from each other, especially today when thanks to the internet we've all learned a lot more than we could before. Based on a variety of feedback, I can say for sure that many Canadians are concerned about what's really happening, including many Canadian men who feel a stronger traditional sense of responsibility to deal with any threats to our country on behalf of women, children and the elderly. This means that calmly and consistently sharing information with people and letting them deal with it in their own way on their own time works in Canada.

This can be done by sharing dvds, flyers, tips on posters, emails, articles, videos, comments on articles and message boards, the results of correspondence with powerful people institutions, and more, anonymously or not. Sharing information and leaving it with people is often better than engaging in conversations in our culture. Conversations about unfamiliar areas will often become arguments as people instinctively want to defend what they already know as part of defending their ego. You might win the argument but lose the friend. So, if it's about them, then make sure you share something besides your opinion, like a small 1" x 3" piece of paper with a parent with info about where to research the "risks" and benefits of vaccines and get exemption forms. If they want to, they can always ask you about it later

While great individual journalists are doing great work, we need to visit websites like Infowars.com to find it on a regular basis. They publish the best rare mainstream news daily, plus their own work and analysis, to help create an alternate narrative of what's really happening. Historically, the truth is that nobody took anything that the British Empire took when they ran the world for 500 years. So, they still have it and still run the world along with U.S. "muscle" and "globalization" allies worldwide. Their big central bankers who just got "trillions" in "bailouts" during this recession control most of the corporations, governments and everyone else in the world. They use a "fiat" money-system, meaning they print it from nothing and loan it to put everyone in debt and control them. Now, they want more control over us.

The G20 Martial Law in Toronto was just "practice" for our police and others to enforce "martial law" again after a coming economic crash. Most of our security forces probably don't know about the "shadow government" behind the scenes who manipulate our big institutions. So, more Canadians should tell them and make noise about it in general. The mass media as a whole is scaring us more frequently with economic and other worries, plus clues that hint at this situation. At the same time, they're distracting and titillating us with celebrities and sports stars, throwing us off-balance. We get what we're all supposed to talk about today, and how, but it rarely results in us getting anything else, like more control over our culture and future. That's why we simply have to add more to the conversations that we already have.

Below is more information to check into, more updates shortly, and regardless... please enjoy the summer! :-)

Cheers,

Vij

.

Vijay Sarma

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

.

10 Things That Might Be Worth Looking At (Keyword Search Online To Learn More)

.

1) 10 years ago the guy who put fluoride in Toronto's water said take it out, and Montreal and Vancouver don't use it either.

<http://www.fluoridealert.org/limeback.htm>

2) Journalist Christopher Bryson reviewed tons of evidence from scientists about fluoride, here's a 30 minute video summary.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Q3y8uwtxrHo>

3) These reverse-osmosis and air-moisture water filters can remove fluoride, unlike most filters, so always look for that feature.

<http://www.berkeywater.com/> - and - <http://www.ecoloblue.com/>

4) Vaccines have potential "risks" as well as benefits worth looking into, as well as legal vaccine exemption forms for children.

<http://vran.org/exemptions/>

5) This page has a list of 9 medical doctors and 1 Health Canada PhD whistleblower who can explain the risks of all vaccines.

<http://www.meetup.com/9-11-282/>

6) CBC's "The National" was nice enough to interview our Toronto Truth Seekers group during the H1N1 "swine flu" pandemic.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=4VSKC1Fu5Ys>

7) PressForTruth.ca has great info on the Toronto G20 and Canada, so I invited Dan and Bryan on CKLN 88.1 FM for an hour.

<http://www.radio4all.net/index.php/program/43952>

8) This is an interview I did for the new film "United We Fall" about the SPP.Gov / North American Union sequel to NAFTA deal.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7CdtWyJUyak>

9) Stephen Harper said the new "global economy" will cost Canada it's sovereignty and that we just have to deal with it. Okay.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=McWAnMWOsyY>

10) This film called "Endgame" pretty much explains it all and is a must-see for all Canadian males age 25 - 45 who can still fight.

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=x-CrNiiZho>

.

.

UPDATE 2 -- 4:00 pm EST, July 1st, 2010 -- Happy Canada Day! :-)

Please share this news on behalf of Toronto, this just arrived in my inbox from Mr. Terry Burrows, Canadian Patriot.

Canada Day 2010 - Toronto G20 False Flag Op Fraud Hitting the MSM (From Great Canadian Patriot Terry Burrows - BK)

Hi Terry,

Thanks again, Joe interviewed me on Saturday morning at 10 am after a friend sent in pictures of me posterizing, and while I didn't make the Sunday article he wrote, I'm a journalist too and sometimes people I interview don't make my stories, so no hard feelings. He seems like a nice guy and he wrote a great article about how business owners were mystified by the lack of cops during the protests which reflected some of our "this is a slap in the face" conversation. Please keep the great info coming, I think you're doing historic work on this issue and sincerely appreciate it.

Oh yeah... and Happy Canada Day! :-)

Cheers,

Vij

Protest enforcement begs questions

By JOE WARMINGTON, Toronto Sun

Last Updated: June 26, 2010 10:51pm

http://www.torontosun.com/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/26/14531361.html

Greetings and Happy Canada Day everybody (from Terry Burrows)

I am happy to be able to tell you that the "The Toronto G20 Riot Fraud: Undercover Police Engaged in Purposeful Provocation - Identical Boots Exposed Undercover Police Provocateurs" article is the #1 lead headline article on the home page of Michel Chossudovsky's Global Research website this Canada Day. It went up at 8:00 a.m. Sunday morning June 27, 2010, so it's continuing prominent placement is an indication of how much it is being read.

For those who don't know, GlobalResearch.ca in Montreal is one of the world's premiere anti-New World Order websites. It has been on the web for years and its readership is huge. The main thing I wanted to do was remind people about the 2007 Montebello undercover police provocateur fraud and I felt it was important to do so while the 2010 Toronto replay of this was still unfolding. I am gratified to say this effort has been fruitful. There have been many articles and videos exposing the Toronto G20 "Black Bloc" false flag op fraud since and (this is my main news today) it is now breaking through into the mainstream (see below).

<http://www.globalresearch.ca>

As a special Canada Day gift to us all today, the first ever mainstream media article exposing a stand-down order to facilitate a false flag operation has appeared in the Toronto Sun this morning, with Joe Warmington reporting that "there was "a clear order from the command centre saying 'Do not engage' ", referring to the covert official allowing of the protected "Black Bloc" to rampage through Toronto to provide the pretext for the later assault of the peaceful protesting citizens on Saturday June 26, 2010 ("Cops had hands 'cuffed - Could have moved on Black Bloc anarchists - but brass ordered them not to.")

.

Warmington: Cops had hands 'cuffed

By JOE WARMINGTON, Toronto Sun

Last Updated: June 30, 2010 8:29am

http://www.torontosun.com/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/30/14564416.html#/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/30/pf-14564416.html

.

I think we are making progress.

Well done everybody and Happy Canada Day as we continue to stand on guard for our beloved country and world against the New World Order Satanic psychopaths.

They are not going to win.

The people are awakening and refusing to be tyrannized.

The psychopaths should have remembered not to make Canadian Hobbits mad. It is a very foolish thing to do.

Hallelujah!

Terry.

.

Warmington: Cops had hands 'cuffed

By JOE WARMINGTON, Toronto Sun

Last Updated: June 30, 2010 8:29am

Who made the decision for police to stand down despite the fact the city was under attack?

And why?

Was it a police decision or political?

These should be the cornerstone questions of an external review surrounding the chaos of the G20.

http://www.torontosun.com/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/30/14564416.html#/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/30/pf-14564416.html

.

Warmington: Cops had hands 'cuffed

By JOE WARMINGTON, Toronto Sun

Last Updated: June 30, 2010 8:29am

Who made the decision for police to stand down despite the fact the city was under attack?

And why?

Was it a police decision or political?

These should be the cornerstone questions of an external review surrounding the chaos of the G20.

After all, police officers were trained to stop the Black Bloc anarchists, were appropriately equipped and massively manned.

As downtown Toronto witnessed burning police cars and a small group of thugs on a rampage, a police source tells me the only thing that stopped the officers from doing that was an order telling them not to. They tell me they could have rounded up all, or most of them, in no time.

I have had several frontline police officers tell me they were told not to get involved. But even before that decision was made, says one insider, there was mass confusion and indecision.

"The orders went from engage to, no, don't engage to engage to, no, don't engage," said an officer. "It was an absolute shambles. Everyone was talking over each other on the radio. Nobody seemed to know what to do. It was just a mess."

The officer said that eventually there was "a clear order from the command centre saying 'Do not engage' " and, at that point, smelling weakness and no repercussions, the downtown was effectively turned over to the vandals while police, up to 19,000 strong, were ordered to stay out of it.

Four police cars were destroyed and dozens of other properties were damaged.

"It was awful," said an officer. "There were guys with equipment to do the job, all standing around looking at each other in disbelief ... The Montreal riot guys were livid ... They just wanted to get in there and do the job but were told they are too intimidating."

So who made that order?

Was it Chief Bill Blair? Mayor David Miller? Prime Minister Stephen Harper? Somebody else?

The inevitable inquiry, separate from the announced internal police review, will have to address this and a whole lot of other things. For example, why were a record 1,000 arrests made a day after the actual incident where very few arrests were made during it?

How many convictions will there be? Could police have had more mobile officers? Should they have been in bigger numbers on Yonge St.?

Was it necessary to place people, some reportedly not even adults, in temporary cages without a bed and open toilet for a so-called breach of the peace?

Was it appropriate to point weapons at protesters or even fire them? Was it constitutional to corral and hold hundreds of innocent people at Queen St. and Spadina Ave.?

Curiously, Blair didn't take as hard a stand a year before when the Tamil Tiger supporters not only controlled University Ave. for four days but also took over the Gardiner Expressway.

"Miller wouldn't have let him as they are terrified to be called racist," said one copper.

Toronto Police so far have offered no apologies for the bizarre incident at Queen and Spadina, but my sources say that may be the easiest option for them.

"The chief is rattled because he knows that circus at Spadina and Queen was unlawful and it is going to come back to bite him in the ass," said one copper. "If one of us had detained people like that, we would be hammered with Police Act charges."

If it's deemed criminal, who investigates? The very people who ordered it?

With or without a probe, suggestions everybody in the vicinity of a heated protest is complicit or a co-conspirator is almost as embarrassing as Saturday's standoff.

Many would like to know why they were so lenient originally on the real bad guys and later how heavy-handed on the rest?

Meanwhile, the blooper reel keeps on rolling, as illustrated so well by the underwhelming arsenal Blair trotted out Tuesday of the kind of stuff you'd find in someone's garage.

When called on it, the chief even had to admit the most menacing items on the table -- a crossbow and chainsaw -- weren't even related to the G20, even though no one removed them for the media pictures.

Who knows what's real any more?

One thing that did appear real was a police video surveillance image of the actual bad guys all huddled together in black clothing prior to the destruction.

Why didn't police brass act right then and there? After all there were only a few dozen of them against 19,000 strong.

This picture shows the police brass knew the location of the real culprits and were tracking their movements. Why didn't they let their people just nab them right there with the same zero tolerance Toronto has for parking violations?

Perhaps there are enough people out there who'd also like to know?

.

http://www.torontosun.com/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/30/14564416.html#/news/columnists/joe\_warmington/2010/06/30/pf-14564416.html

.

.

.

UPDATE 1 -- 1:00 pm, EST, July 1st, 2010 -- Happy Canada Day! :-)

.

My apologies for the delays, it's been a busy few weeks and I haven't been online much, but it's been a worthwhile learning experience. Before the G20 weekend, I was ID'd a dozen times while posting to protest the protest and suggest we calmly and consistently share good info like "The Non-GMO Shopping Guide" and more in the "Infowar"... instead of agreeing to the governments invitation to just yell at cops, get beaten up and go home. That seems like a bad way to get any political change since everybody but the protesters hates it, and even the protesters should. These "protests" also never plan to accomplish anything and never do. I resisted being ID'd at first, but during "martial law" (should that be in quotes?) the police have orders to keep them safe and keep their jobs, so I just accepted it later to continue staying on the streets to figure out martial law.

During the G20, on Saturday night, June 26th, I asked a business owner on Yonge Street why we'd seen cops every 2 minutes all week, yet that night there were none assigned to deal with the 1000 protesters running everywhere. He said he didn't know. He said he didn't understand it either. I felt bad for him, but I also knew this was a big set-up when I first started warning people about it in April. Once I read in the Globe & Mail that "10,000" cops, troops, mercs and spooks were coming, I got worried and thought other Torontonians should be worried too. The people and police of Toronto -- likely under the control of the Federal Government for an "international summit" -- were brutalized and traumatized unnecessarily and on purpose. Coming to this conclusion takes some work, but lots of people are still working on it and the evidence is worth looking at.

.

We should wonder why and how "Black Bloc tourist protesters" could evade a massive "$1 billion" police, military and intelligence security blanket over the city. Or how cops allowed out-of-towners to destroy their stuff and others. No police officer could just show up for work and decide to let their equipment -- like a $60,000 police car paid for by taxpayers -- be destroyed just because they felt like it. They'd be fired. Of course, some were excessively violent in these big "population control" excercises made possible by the government inviting large groups of people to yell at cops, but for the most part and despite being an intimidating presence, with un-marked vans and SUV's roaming the city, things didn't go as badly as they could have. My personal experience is that once they're comfortable with you, then you can be comfortable with them.

This is important to note because, outside of some great Canadian journalists asking great questions, on the whole it looks like we're being set-up by the media spin to fight with our own cops again in the future. After the G20 weekend, it looks like we had a bout of the "blue flu" too, with a far-less than normal police presence in Toronto. Perhaps some R&R, perhaps some good PR, or perhaps some institutional resistance against the big government "game" they were a part of, where the "violence" was sold as inevitable and their hands were tied trying to stop it. Many just got a call on their earpiece and raced to the scene of G-d knows what, from riots to bombs to anything else. Previous "police provocateur" incidents like in Montebello, Quebec (CBC 23/Aug/07) and new evidence make it look like one part of the government was -- once again -- attacking another.

.

Now, all of this is possible based on recent history, but if any of it is true, then we have a big problem on our hands. If we just act "normal", then our "new normal" will include Canadian governments being able to declare martial law whenever they want, even for a stupid "summit", which they probably only held in a big city like Toronto to test martial law on a large Canadian urban population. They never said "never again" and didn't even apologize, so they're not going to do a good job with any pathetic "inquiry", or what connected Canadians get instead of a "trial" even when they do "criminal" stuff. While some of our rights were taken in this "military" exercise, the next one will see more of ours taken based on this precedent. We have no idea when this will happen again unless we stop it, including committing all candidates in this local "election" year to try.

When criminals running the Canadian government send 10,000 cops, troops, mercs and spooks to occupy and terrorize Toronto, then you know they're not nice people. So, we should be concerned about what they might do next. This is a classic problem faced by every group of people, or "tribe" in history. Based on the potential dangers involved, the classic reaction and solution was that guys or "men" would step-up and defend the women, children and elderly of the village from any attacks simply because they were more physically able to. Others might fight, but men had to, otherwise they wouldn't be men. Today, a "physical" or "violent" confrontation with better-armed and better-trained people is out of the question. But, the "Infowar", or calmly and consistently sharing good information that improves peoples lives while indicting the system, has been effective.

.

After being ID'd a dozen times while postering against the protest and the police finding nothing wrong with what I was doing, by Thursday (June 24th) there was no point in doing that anymore. So, instead I was followed up Yonge Street north of College by cops, city workers and helicopters. (Seriously.) They weren't trying to threaten me, so I noticed and ignored them. Later, walking back south from Davenport, I saw "the state" had sent them to rip all my posters down. During rush hour. On Yonge Street. With huge crowds walking by and people thanking me for putting them up. I've also seen them ripped down other places despite older posters still being there. That's enough proof that the "Infowar" works, or there's no way they'd go to all that trouble. In fact, it's worked since the 1776 American Revolution and before and is better than just yelling at cops and getting beaten up.

Here in "Communist Canada", a nickname for the fact that most of us know that the government is evil but we're often scared to talk about it, we're not stupid, we're just quiet. The G20 "world leaders" and their corporate-controllers got that confused. Many of us know that we can't just let the government abuse us like children and then tell us to run along and play whenever they feel like it. Our best course of action after this traumatic PSYOP (psychological operation) is to make sure we talk about it, get our feelings out and figure out what to do to make sure it never happens again. Otherwise we'll always be paranoid about it. While some people always want to "Keep it happy!" in conversations no matter what, when stuff like this happens, they get hit the hardest by it. Since the "martial law" stuff off the "internet" and warnings for decades recently became reality in Toronto, let's just deal with it.

.

Here are some good stories to contextualize the recent G20 World Government Martial Law situation:

.

Press For Truth Video Reports About The G20 Summit Weekend

http://pressfortruth.ca/news\_dtls.php?rid=134&catid=5

G20: Riot for sake of riot

http://www.torontosun.com/comment/columnists/peter\_worthington/2010/06/29/14560026.html

The Toronto G20 Riot Fraud: Undercover Police engaged in Purposeful Provocation At Tax Payers' Expense

<http://www.globalresearch.ca/index.php?context=va&aid=19928>

'Nerd' shocked his toys in G20 weapons cache

<http://www.torontosun.com/news/g20/2010/06/30/14570096.html>

G20 law gives police sweeping powers to arrest people

<http://www.thestar.com/news/gta/article/828367--g20-law-gives-police-sweeping-powers-to-arrest-people>

Real Tyranny: Was Canada ever the Country we thought it was?

<http://www.infowars.com/real-tyranny-was-canada-ever-the-country-we-thought-it-was/>

Will G20 Police Succeed In Covering Up Reports of Rape and Torture?

UPDATE: We have now learned that four journalists, including Miller, have "filed complaints with Ontario's police watchdog, with allegations that police physically assaulted or threatened to sexually assault the females when they were arrested during the Toronto G20 summit." In addition, Guardian journalist Jesse Rosenfeld has spoken publicly of his ordeal at the hands of G20 police. "I was grabbed on each side and hit in the stomach and back and pounced on by officers. I kept asking them why they were beating me because I wasn't resisting arrest. But they lifted my leg and twisted my ankle," said Rosenfeld.

<http://www.infowars.com/will-g20-police-succeed-in-covering-up-reports-of-rape-and-torture/>

Blue Flu is the cop's version of going on strike. Since they can't legally strike they all call in sick.

<http://www.urbandictionary.com/define.php?term=Blue+Flu>

U.S. Northern Command, Canada Command establish new bilateral Civil Assistance Plan

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, February 14, 2008 — U.S. Air Force Gen. Gene Renuart, commander of North American Aerospace Defense Command and U.S. Northern Command, and Canadian Air Force Lt.-Gen. Marc Dumais, commander of Canada Command, have signed a Civil Assistance Plan that allows the military from one nation to support the armed forces of the other nation during a civil emergency.

<http://www.northcom.mil/news/2008/021408.html>

.

Below are some great websites to check out and share on a variety of issues.

If the info sounds stupid, then laugh at it. If it sounds smart, appreciate it.

You can use music or anything or anyone else to inspire you to act now.

Sharing good info that you know people can use is a nice thing to do.

More soon after some postering, and again, Happy Canada Day! :-)

Cheers,

Vij

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

.

News - <http://www.infowars.com>

News - <http://pressfortruth.ca>

Health - <http://www.naturalnews.com>

Health - <http://www.canadiansforhealthfreedom.org>

Wealth - <http://www.trendsresearch.com>

Wealth - <http://theinternationalforecaster.com>

Relationships - <http://www.thepinkcross.org>

Relationships - <http://www.cruelhoax.ca/#top>

Celebrities - <http://vigilantcitizen.com>

Non-GMO Shopping Guide - <http://www.seedsofdeception.com>

Vaccine Risks and Exemptions - <http://vran.org/exemptions>

Montreal and Vancouver Don't Use Fluoride - <http://www.fluoridealert.org>

.

P.S. Incidentally, since some people kept asking "Vijay" to stop figuring out and explaining what's really happening because it made them uncomfortable, instead of agreeing to half-ass it, I developed a free-thinking philosopher stage-name that I often use for music, my radio show and more to say what I need to. I even meet people as "Black Krishna" or "BK", and it's similar to how a rapper or stripper (dancer) has two names so they can remember if they met you in the club or not, which changes how they know you want to interact with them. You can call me whatever you want, or "Vijay" or "BK", the former will tell me you want me to be more conservative, the latter more revolutionary, so it's easier for both of us. We run into problems when we can't just tell each other what's up, but we can find solutions. More G20 stuff is on my blog, a good place to start if you'd like.

<http://blackkrishna.blogspot.com>

.

.

.

UPDATE: June 20, 2010

.

Sorry for the "declaring" delays, I've been busy on these issues in other ways, plus I see that Rob Ford and George Smitherman are in the lead, but "The Metro" showed a new poll that said if John Tory was to join the race he'd be the front-runner. Nobody is saying or doing anything to impress the people of Toronto yet. It's an open race.

As a philosopher who's worked in Toronto on journalism, activism, sales, music and more, I'm aware that Canadian are aware of the "system" where corporations control governments. They also know that the same "system" poses a serious threat to our health, wealth and relationships that should be addressed in the Mayoral campaign.

With respect to defining this problem, and how to solve it, as a CKLN 88.1 FM radio personality for 4 years, including currently hosting my own news show from 6 - 7 am Mondays - Thursdays, I know nearly Torontonians say they're okay with my approach, but they just worry about what others will think. So, we're okay with it.

For now, the G20 "world leaders" coming to Toronto, charging us $1 billion for it after saying they're "broke" after wasting our tax-money for years, and siccing 10,000 cops, troops, spooks and "private contactors" (mercenaries) on us after building what looks like half a concentration camp in the middle of Toronto is... wrong.

This "protest" is also the "wrong" approach to "real" problems, especially after the government you're against built you a "Hollywood set" to blow-off steam and go home. They never plan to achieve or result in anything but the media being able to demonize dissent by telling people to act too-crazy for normal people to relate to.

Super-rich families who run the world created private, charitable and tax-exempt foundations to hand-out "grants" to control "activism" and "academia", like the "Ford" and "Rockefeller" foundation among many others. This "protest" or "rock concert" model and traumatic slap in the face to the people of Toronto is their handiwork.

They are also behind "globalization", or globally centralizing their power. They use our politicians like puppets to lie to us and give them more power by signing agreements with international bodies the elite control, like the United Nations, World Health Organization, International Criminal Court and so on. They want World Government.

Before Canada Day, on July 1st, 2010, it would help for us to understand the only reason we're threatened by GMO foods, the loss of privacy, a weak economy and more is because we don't control where we live. We don't really talk about how to control it either, which is what the global elite in control of most countries want.

Fortunately, the "G20 Protest" is a perfect opportunity to expose how "globalization" takes power away from nations and transfers it to un-elected bureaucrats working for super-wealthy families who've run the world since the "colonial" days and never stopped. For example, "The Queen" is STILL on half the money in the world. Plus.

On that note, we can see that yelling at cops trying to keep a straight face while the G20 politicians inside already know how you feel is pointless. Still, our big problems can be fixed with small solutions, including simply sharing information in a calm, compassionate and peaceful manner with our neighbours. It's that simple.

People who want to stand for something should stand for it before the G20 from June 26 - 27th, and before "Canada Day" too. Below are public domain posters and flyers on our health risks and socialization that we can use, adapt or share. This is what's worked for thousands of years: telling our neighbours what they needed to know.

Finally, this understanding of the world can be new to some, so two CKLN radio interviews that explain almost all of it are included. Since this can seem like "heavy stuff" to a lot of people, and we've all been socialized to avoid it, should Canadian men age 25 - 45 feel they can deal with this stuff on behalf of women, children and the elderly? :-)

.

Poster and Flyers To Stand For Something * Before * The G20 June 26 - 27th and Canada Day on July 1st, 2010

MS PowerPoint (better resolution) and PDF (only if formatting issues)

<http://www.archive.org/details/PosterAndFlyersToStandForSomethingBeforeTheG20June26-27thAnd>

.

Alan Watt as a guest on CKLN 88.1 FM's "Rude Awakening" News Show

MP3 - http://www.cuttingthroughthematrix.net/radio/Rude\_Awakening\_Black\_Krishna\_CKLN\_FM.html

Transcript - http://www.cuttingthroughthematrix.com/transcripts/Alan\_Watt\_on\_RudeAwakening\_with\_BlackKrishna\_CKLN\_FM\_RyersonUniversity\_Toronto\_Oct022007.html

.

More updates to come shortly, all the best! :-)

Cheers,

Vij

vijay.sarma@gmail.com

.

.

Vijay Sarma - 2010 Toronto Mayor Candidate

1512-C Dundas Street West, Toronto, Ontario, M6K 1T5

Vijay.Sarma@gmail.com | 647-857-5755 | <http://WhatYouWantToBelieveIn.com>

.

